Don't Throw it All Away.

Recyclable of The Month Tin Cans

Tin Cans are 99% steel with a thin tin coating to prevent rusting.

Every day, Americans use 100 million tin cans.

It takes a steel can about 100 years to decompose in land-fill sites.

About 70% of all metal is used once and discarded.

Making tin cans out of recycled steel takes one-fourth the energy as making the can from new steel.

It also creates one fourth the air & water pollution created by making new steel.
